Fast way to find replacement parts and panels

A website that offers repairers a single source where it is possible to fill out just one form and then wait for dealers, dismantlers, suppliers to contact them with prices and availability?

Well, according to Mike King, that's now possible thanks to his site www.findapart.com.au

"It's a huge timesaver that already includes over 450 wreckers and suppliers from Australia and New Zealand on its database," he said.

"Website traffic is showing remarkable growth, doubling every month since we launched in July.

Mike was always confident that the service would be of enormous assistance to all facets of the motor trade.

"Our rapid acceptance and growth is proof positive that the internet is revolutionising the way we are doing business," he added.

The service works by matching the needs of new, used or reconditioned parts users with wreckers and dealers who are listed in the database as suppliers of those parts.

A parts request is sent out via email to multiple wreckers and dealers across Australia who respond directly to the enquiry with prices, quotes and availability.

"Best of all, it doesn't cost the user a cent and with overnight shipping commonplace in the dismantling and parts supply industries findapart.com.au opens up the whole of Australia and New Zealand," said Mike.

Parts are available for cars, trucks, 4WD, motorcycles, commercial vehicles, outboard, ATV, watercraft, earthmoving, mining, lawn mowing and agriculture.
