A New Look for Spare Parts. Sick of searching for that long lost engine part or missing hose?

How would you like to go to just one website, fill in one form and then wait for dealers/dismantlers/suppliers to contact you with prices/availability etc?? Well now you can, and yes, its that easy - thanks to www.findapart.com.au <<http://www.findapart.com.au>>

A great idea & a huge timesaver, the website already includes over 450 wreckers/suppliers on its database in Australia and New Zealand and website traffic is showing remarkable growth, doubling every month since launching in July, according to site developer Mike King.

"I knew from the outset our service would be of enormous assistance to the parts industry. Our rapid acceptance and growth is proof positive that the internet is revolutionising the way we are doing business. Time is a premium resource and our site benefits both industry participants and the general public...its a win, win situation!"

Essentially, the service works by matching the new, used or reconditioned parts you need with wreckers and dealers who are listed in the database as suppliers of those parts. Your parts request is sent out via email to multiple wreckers/dealers across Australia who respond directly to your parts enquiry with prices, quotes and availability. Best of all, you don't pay a penny. You can even nominate whether they contact you by telephone you or email.

With overnight shipping commonplace in the dismantling and parts supply industries - findapart.com.au opens up the whole of Australia and New Zealand - never before has it been so easy and so fast to find the parts you need.

The website is the brainchild of ex-motorcycle courier Mike King, whose frustration with the regular task of hunting for parts to keep his bikes on the road, turned idea into reality with the launch of www.findapart.com.au <<http://www.findapart.com.au>> , an internet parts finding service that is revolutionising the way the industry, and the general public sources new, used and reconditioned parts. You can give the site the once over at <http://www.findapart.com.au> or call Mike on +612 9544 7820 for more information.
